

abc7chicago.com

Walmart distribution center fire: Crews still dosing fire-damaged warehouse in Plainfield, Indiana

AP

1 minute

PLAINFIELD, Ind. -- Crews are still working to douse hot spots at a Walmart warehouse distribution center near Indianapolis, a day after a fire swept the sprawling building and produced a smoke plume so large it was spotted by a weather satellite.

Plainfield Fire Chief Brent Anderson told reporters Thursday that the fire had been contained and crews rotated every four hours overnight to battle hot spots in the fire-damaged building.

RAW VIDEO | Walmart fire sends plume of smoke into air

He says investigators may not be able to get inside the building until Friday.

The roughly 1,000 employees who were working when the fire were not injured, but one firefighter suffered minor injuries fighting the blaze.

Copyright © 2022 by The Associated Press. All Rights Reserved.